

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0032] A forme cylinder is provided with a circumferential surface which is convexly curved in the axial direction, such that the convex profile, determined by calculation, of the circumferential surface varies in such a way that the diameter of the forme cylinder is largest in the axial center and smallest at the lateral edges.